

Pythian Food Drive

December 28, 2010

In his message to the Domain, Grand Chancellor Michael Sukenick charged his team with creating and implementing special projects to help spread Pythianism throughout New York.

Some of the team members decided to use this opportunity to engage the lodges in new and different charitable actions.

As part of our domain's charitable actions, Deputy Grand Chancellor Jeremy Seideman (2nd District) organized a food drive to benefit City Harvest.

City Harvest (<http://www.cityharvest.org>) is the one of the first food rescue organizations, whose mission is to bring food from people and restaurants to those who need it most.

Lodges collected non-perishable food which was then donated to City Harvest to be distributed to those in need.

With the help of Deputy Grand Chancellor Brian Kohn (46th District), Jeremy rallied the lodges in Brooklyn, and they have collected over 600 pounds of food in a few short weeks to donate to City Harvest for the holidays.
